Hello Jennifer Beth Cartrette

Your pap smear results have returned. There were some questionable cells (termed "abnormal cells of undetermined significance"). When we get this result, we have the lab test for the HPV virus, which causes almost all precancerous cellular abnormalities. This result was negative. That combination of results is very reassuring and based on current national guidelines, I recommend repeating the pap smear in three years BUT still have once yearly GYN visit and exam. Please let us know if you have any questions.
